Realise Your Vision for Early Years

Benefit from professional dialogue as we work together to realise your vision for children's early learning and development.

Be Inspired & Transform Your Provision

Visit our Centres for Inspirational Learning which showcase model classrooms and best practice galleries to inform teaching and learning.

Gain Expertise to Improve Outcomes

Engage with our highly experienced consultants who provide high quality training and resources to guide improvement and transform the learning environment.

Creating Inspirational Environments

Engaged in active learning. Confident to try things out. Keen to acquire new skills and knowledge. Highly motivated to share ideas and find out about the world around. In a well-organised, stimulating environment with a good balance of self-initiated and adult-directed learning – all of these things are possible and more.

At Early Excellence we are passionate about inspiring young learners and committed to helping you develop the very best provision. So whether you are refurbishing your existing provision or opening a brand new classroom, we can help you to create an outstanding environment that meets the developmental needs of young learners.

We provide a comprehensive range of educational resources that connect with children's interests, build on their experiences and open-up new avenues for learning – as well as a unique range of furniture and storage solutions to support highly effective organisation.

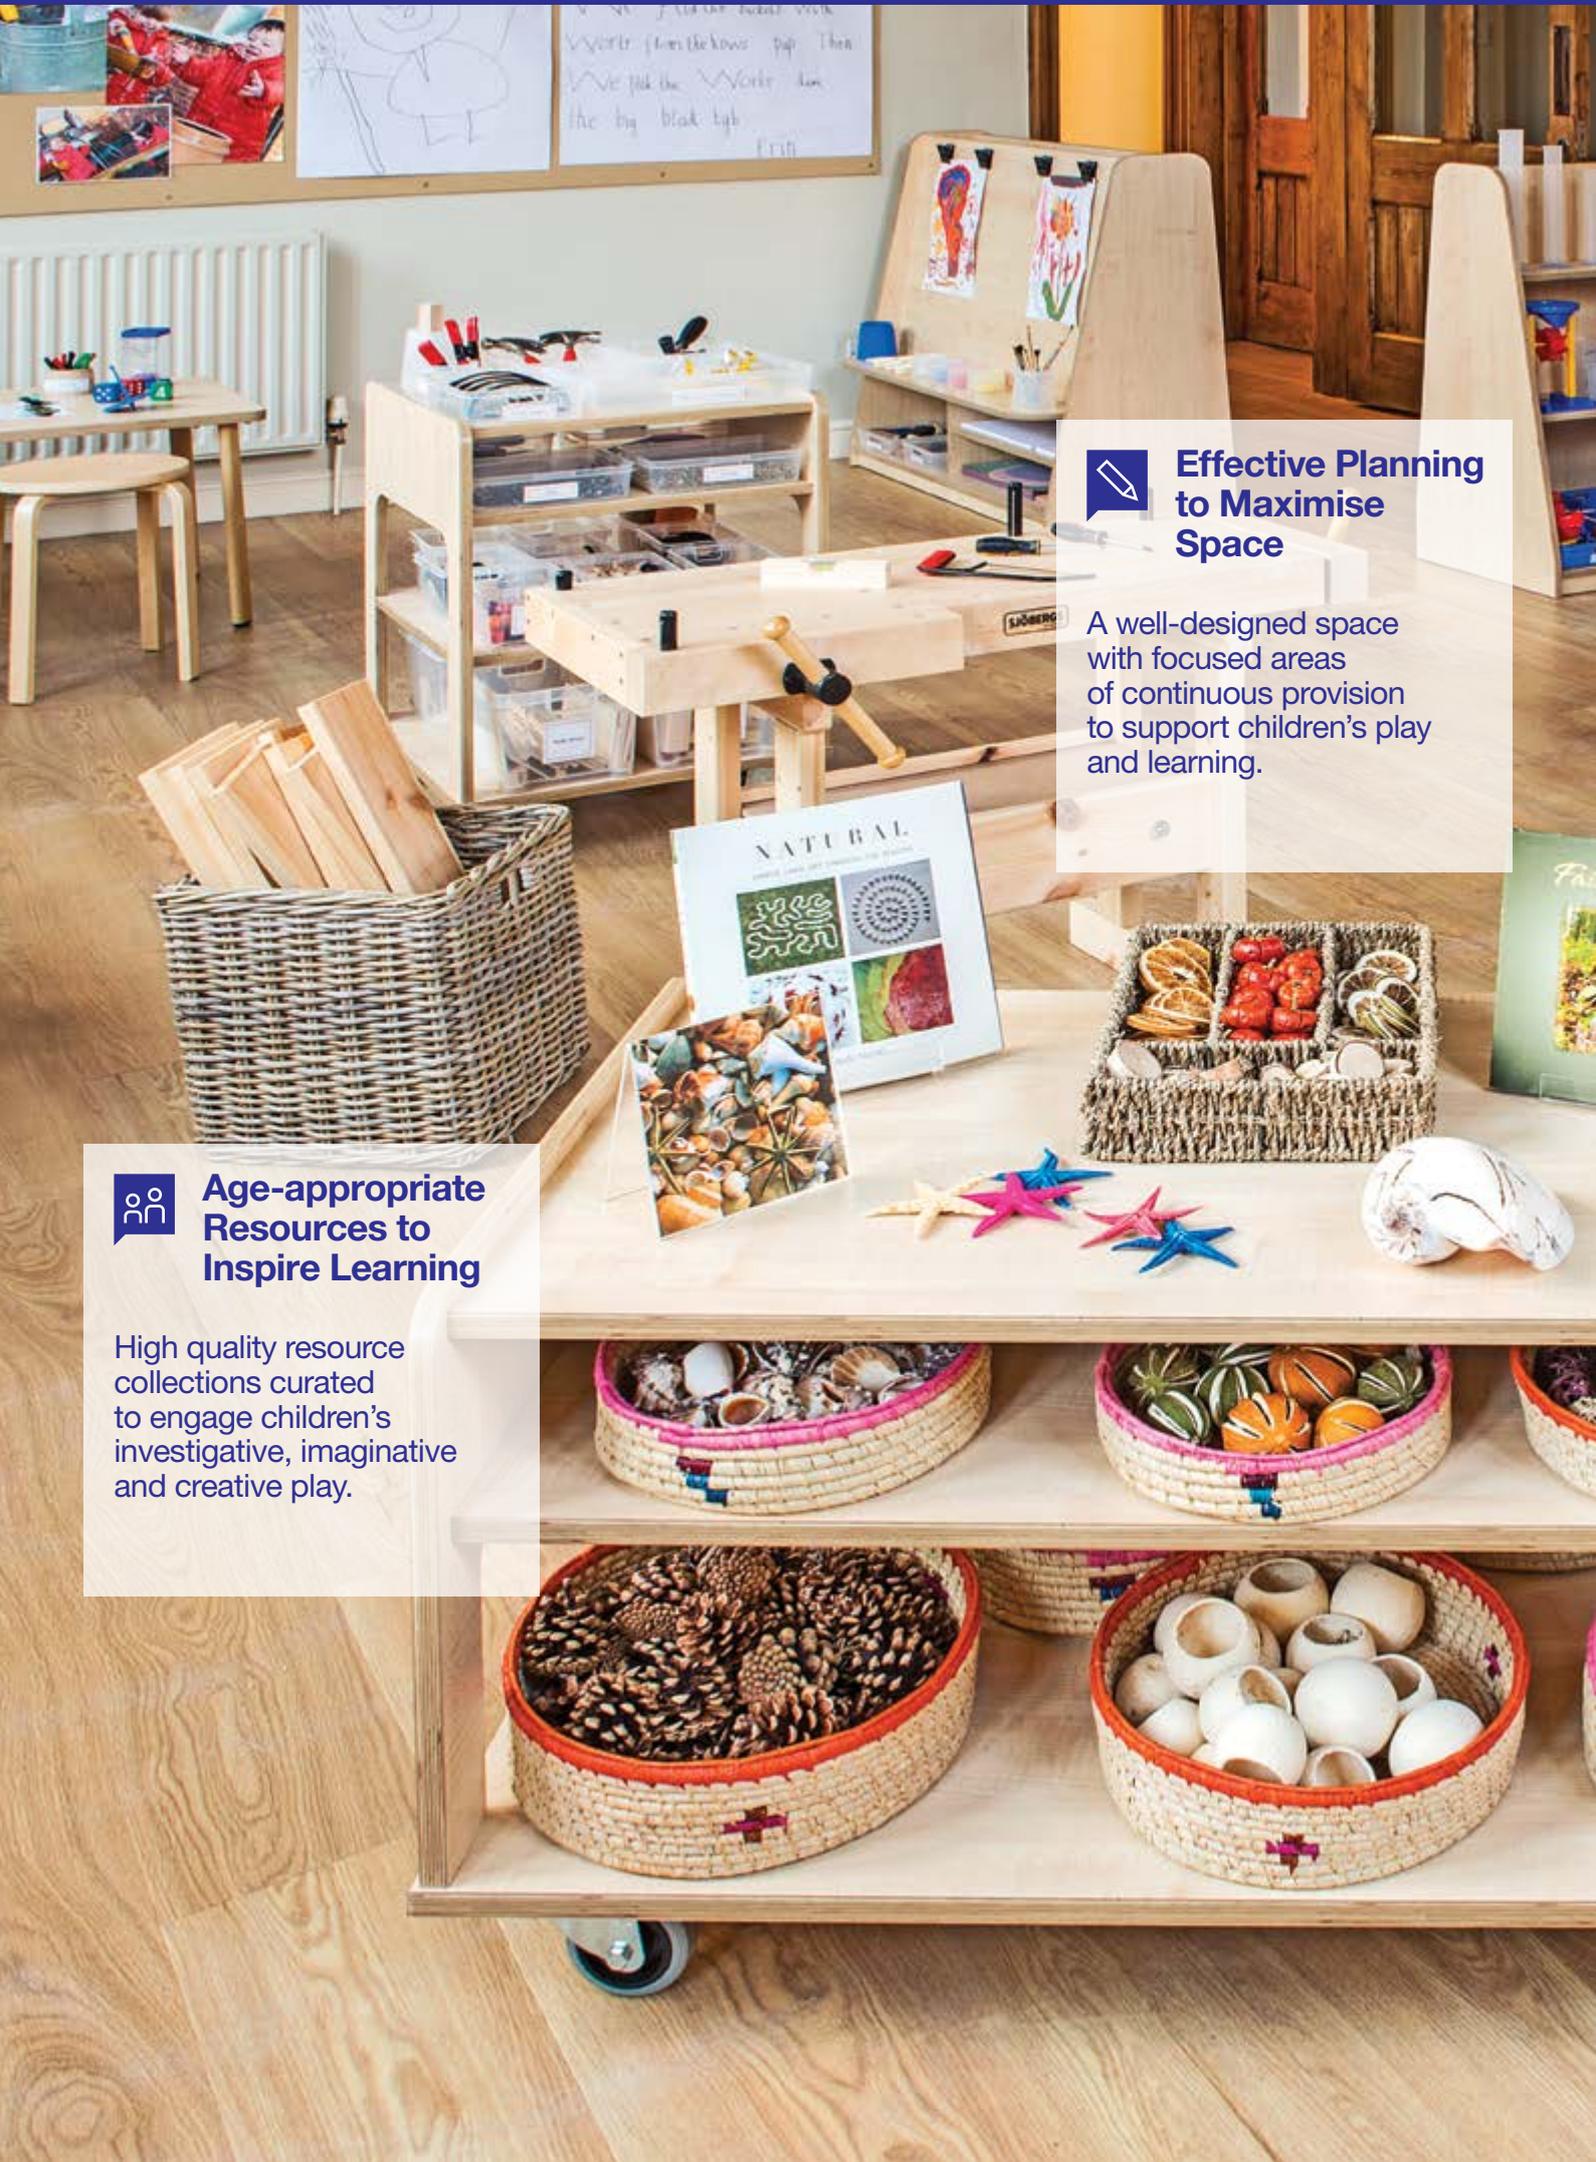

For immediate advice about our complete classrooms, or for help in planning your provision, email Nova Robinson – nova@earlyexcellence.com or call us on 01422 311 314.

We look forward to supporting your development plans.

With best wishes

Liz Marsden
Founder & CEO

About Your
Provision

For advice about equipping new and refurbished rooms, contact Nova Robinson by email nova@earlyexcellence.com or call 01422 311 314.

‘Your consultants are quite exceptional. I had lots of really useful discussions with a knowledgeable adviser who turned my blank floor plans into vibrant classrooms.’

Annette Williams
Headteacher, Barnton Community Primary, Cheshire

‘I am so pleased with my classroom. The furniture and resources are amazing and are already helping to improve practice. The whole experience has been excellent. 10/10!’

Katherine Drayson
EYFS Co-ordinator, Holy Trinity CE Primary School, Manchester

‘I thought I’d share some fabulous news! Not long after working with Early Excellence our practice was externally reviewed and the team were impressed with so many aspects - it was truly outstanding! Thank you for all your help.’

Martyn Payne
Headteacher, Pakefield Primary Academy, Lowestoft

Designing Classrooms with Expert Support

For advice about how best to design and equip your learning environment – whether a new space or an existing classroom – simply contact us for help. One of our Curriculum Consultants will work with you to discuss your vision, design your rooms and create a detailed list of all the equipment you need to transform your environment.

We specialise in resourcing classrooms from 2 to 6 years and plan pre-school rooms, nurseries, Reception and Y1 classrooms as well as shared areas. Our fast and efficient delivery service ensures that you receive your order as quickly as you'd like, and we even help you to install all of your furniture and resources. We can also provide onsite consultancy and training to support and upskill staff.

'With your support we have begun to achieve our vision for a child-centred ethos through primary. We have worked together to plan and equip stimulating environments YR – Y2. With continuing support we are confident in achieving quality learning right the way through school.'

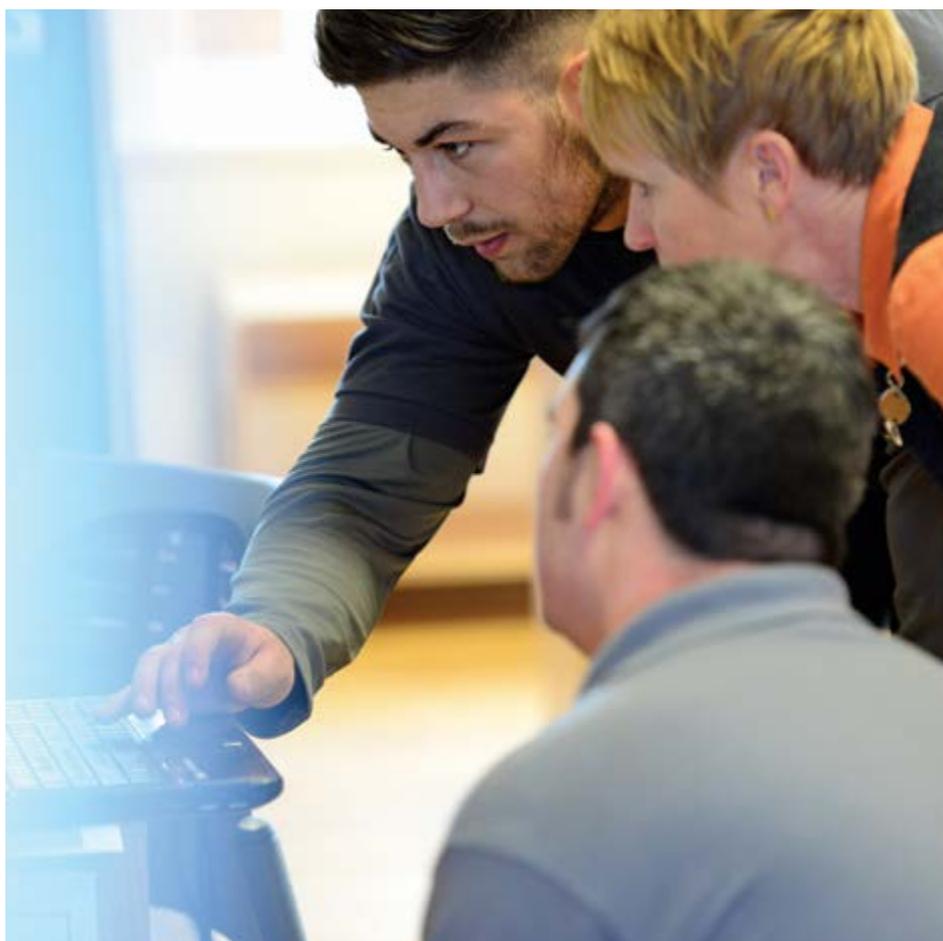

Chris Currie
Head of Primary, Dixons Allerton Academy, Bradford

Benefits

- Expert help to design your classrooms
- Bespoke plans to maximise the use of space
- Support with ordering all of your furniture and resources
- Speedy delivery and help with installing your equipment

Water Area

Water is such a natural, open-ended resource and children's desire to experiment leads to rich learning possibilities across the curriculum. For young children, playing with water in the bath, splashing around in a puddle or experimenting with resources in a water tray all create the opportunity to develop imaginative play. Filling and emptying containers is a key fascination which needs to be fully resourced, as is the desire to find out about how water moves and reacts in different situations.

Water wheels, pipes, tubes and sieves also promote investigation and problem solving – and a good selection of small world resources further inspire imaginative play. To enrich this learning for older children use a set of graduated containers with standard measures for investigating measuring and volume.

Dry Sand Area

Dry sand, both natural and coloured, has a wonderful sensory quality. Young children can move, hold and pour it with such ease that it captures and sustains their interest for long periods of time. By offering a wide variety of everyday, wooden and natural objects children will explore how to pour sand through, onto and into objects as well as how to fill and empty containers.

Providing a selection of jugs, funnels, tubing and sieves, you can support children's mathematical and scientific thinking. Combining dry sand with gravel makes a great base for real life scenes such as building sites with diggers, habitats for desert animals such as snakes and meerkats, or a dinosaur world full of rich opportunities for storytelling.

Wet Sand Area

Exploring, molding and moving wet sand holds a fascination for many children, making the wet sand area a favourite place to play. Flattening sand and smoothing it to make impressions is also a pleasurable experience that supports young children's early mark making.

By providing a variety of buckets, beakers and sand tools along with natural materials, younger children will experience the properties of sand and can explore the comparison between size and shape. The selection of vehicles, people, small world animals and natural materials brings exciting opportunities for recreating familiar events and re-telling stories.

Dough Area

The tactile properties of dough make it fun for children to explore as they find it really easy to use and can manipulate it in lots of different ways. With the right resources there will be challenges that develop fine motor skills as they handle and gain control of the tools available.

By providing a careful selection of resources, easily accessible and available every day, children's play will become much richer in learning. Their mathematical language will be enhanced as key concepts such as size and shape, counting, sharing, doubling and halving are explored. Play with dough is also highly social – children will relax and talk easily to one another, often in role, as they make family meals and celebrate birthdays.

Paint & Workshop Area

As children's fine motor skills develop, their enjoyment of making marks with all sorts of materials begins to emerge. They love to explore with pencils, crayons and felt tips and delight in using paint to experiment and express their ideas. With access to an easel every day, children will soon begin to experiment with shape, size, colour and texture.

With a well-resourced workshop area, children will enjoy exploring how things feel – wet or dry, sticky or smooth – and will begin to make more informed choices and creative decisions as they express and represent their ideas through artwork and models with clever features, moving parts and detailed decoration.

Through child-led, adult-supported play, children will develop their artistic flair and become confident in using a range of techniques to express their ideas.

Woodwork Area

Working with real tools is highly motivating and one challenge that all children are keen to experience. When working with wood – whether hammering nails or building a vehicle – children persevere through the physical and creative challenges they encounter.

Make sure to introduce the resources carefully, setting high expectations for their use. It will be important to show children how to handle and use the tools safely in order for them to manage equipment independently. Once children are off to a good start, with on-going support and guidance, they will soon be able to use all of the tools and equipment well.

Transient Art Area

When children work with natural materials so many possibilities open up. The resources are packed with variation, promoting deep and complex thinking.

Children can be encouraged to look closely at the detail and will begin to notice the subtle differences in colour, texture, size and shape. They will be fascinated by the intricate patterns and special features, and begin to explore how to represent this fine detail in their artwork. Children will naturally want to explore them – to place and position them making a variety of patterns – here one moment, gone the next. Transient and unique works of art – the possibilities are endless.

Maths Area

Young children are fascinated by the feel of natural objects and keen to explore their similarities and differences. For younger learners this extensive discovery collection of wooden objects, scarves, boxes and baskets offers a rich range of opportunities to explore shape, size and position as children sort, order, line-up, hide and cover the objects and materials.

For older children exploring number, space, shape and measure through hands on, open-ended activities and games brings maths to life. Although challenging to get right, a carefully planned maths area provides a wide range of interesting, natural resources to sort, match, order and compare as well as lots of equipment to learn about number through games, rhymes and songs – experiences that lay down strong foundations for later learning.

Science Investigation Area

These collections will evoke a sense of awe and wonder about the phenomena in our world. Tapping into children's innate curiosity, these resources will inspire children to investigate, experiment with ideas, hypothesize and reach their own conclusions. Key concepts of cause and effect, similarities and differences are taught and the magical qualities of materials, force and light are revealed.

Young children will be fascinated by the resources and all of the possibilities they offer for enquiry and will become fully engaged in learning about physical science – a great way to inspire the researchers and inventors of the future.

Mark Making Area

It's an exciting moment when children begin to experiment with making marks and find their passion for expressing ideas through a variety of different media. In a well presented, accessible writing area, children can be supported to explore their ideas and apply their growing skills and knowledge with confidence. Their early marks soon become more sophisticated as they gain control and the journey towards writing begins.

Through child-led, adult-supported play, children will use the mark making area to record their ideas. They will experiment with marks, producing drawing and writing with increasing skill as they apply their growing knowledge of key words, letters and sounds.

Book Area

Both fiction and non-fiction books can be fascinating, beautiful and enticing. They feed children's knowledge and develop their imagination and sense of make believe.

Igniting children's love of books is such an important responsibility, as the books we choose and how we present them can impact significantly on their life-long enjoyment of reading. It is essential to choose books with great illustrations and lots of rhyme and rhythm, as well as books with great characters and story lines.

To support children in selecting and handling books carefully, it's best to display a good range – but not too many. Use front facing books to make the area attractive and accessible as well as books stored in small collections.

Puppet Area

Puppets are both entertaining and captivating. They stimulate children's imagination, encourage creative play and help children to engage fully with story, song and rhyme.

Linking books and puppets is a great way to bring ideas to life, creating rich opportunities to become familiar with well-known tales and to re-tell favourite stories. Being a highly interactive experience, playing with puppets helps children to connect and collaborate with each other. They have great fun developing characters of their own and inventing stories where the puppets are happy or sad, naughty or nice, cheeky or shy.

Through this highly creative experience children will begin to explore the texture of sound, the rhythm of a strong beat and the tone an object makes. Music allows children to express and communicate their ideas, thoughts and feelings. Through this carefully selected range of instruments, children will develop skills in both listening and creating sounds with their friends.

As a valuable resource for any classroom, the collection encourages sound co-ordination as well as the development of gross and fine motor skills. Understanding and enjoyment of rhythm and tone is also brought to life. Children will delight in their own music making. Shake, rattle and roll!

Small Construction Area

Building with different types of construction brings great opportunities for creative thinking and problem solving. Knowing how to use all of the different pieces can be quite daunting at first, and to develop confidence it is good for children to return to the same materials regularly. DUPLO and Mobilo are good sets to have available all of the time with more complex kits such as BRIO Builder being added for additional challenge.

Many children become highly skilful builders and find innovative ways to represent their ideas. Encouraging them to support each other is a good way to share skills and provide opportunities for collaboration. Confident builders can also be shown how to plan, construct and deconstruct their models, making guide books for other children to follow.

Block Area

The opportunity to explore blocks – to represent ideas and build with them – provides many rich opportunities to learn about their properties, size and shape. Block play enables children to develop their problem solving skills and persist in finding solutions – for example balancing different shapes in a structure or finding the right block to place next.

Through their natural desire to explore objects, children soon become confident in handling the blocks, placing and combining them in many different ways. Blocks inspire young children to be adventurous, imaginative and creative – critical behaviours for effective learning.

Small World Area

Small world play draws children into a wonderful world of story – rich in language, it is a fantastic resource that helps them to use their imagination and explore the world around them. By offering quality resources that connect with the real world, children are able to represent the people and places familiar to them. In addition, fantasy characters enhance the collection for older children. They act out narratives and ideas through the characters, scenery and props and are able to reflect on and respond to the events in their lives.

Whether wild animals, royal figures, pirates or superheroes – all come to life as children engage in storytelling full of rich and sophisticated plots and characters.

Role Play Domestic Area

In the early years, dramatic play is closely connected to children's everyday lives. Children relive all of the situations that are familiar to them. They become mum or dad, a baby or older sibling, help with the washing, cleaning, cooking, as well as eat together, feed or bath the baby. There are many relationships and routines to explore!

A well-developed domestic role play area provides all of the basic furniture and equipment to make a home – often focusing more on the kitchen where in modern life, with open-plan living, almost everything happens. Once established, it becomes easy to enhance with real artefacts such as a clock, a calendar, take away menus and magazines that relate to the experiences of children.

Role Play Make Believe Area

Let children's imagination flourish as they make believe and explore whatever they want to be. With this great range of interesting costumes, props and artefacts, children will relish the opportunity to dress-up and bring their ideas to life. They can be a magician, a princess, go to a wedding or visit the shops – everything is possible.

Children are free to express their ideas and be as imaginative as they like. They can create make believe stories and re-enact many of the situations, people and emotions they meet everyday through the story books, TV and films they encounter.

Role Play Real Life Area

Children love to dress-up and develop their imaginative ideas through open-ended role play. They imitate the people around them and enjoy recreating scenes from their everyday lives. For younger children developing an open-ended area with scarves, hats and bags for dressing-up, as well as soft toys and props will inspire and support them in expressing and developing their ideas.

For older children this great range of interesting costumes, props and artefacts provides opportunities to dress-up and bring their ideas to life. Becoming a policeman, helping to rescue an injured pet – or even winning MasterChef! All of these experiences are possible within an imaginary world as children develop conversations and negotiate with others inventing new ideas for their play.

Going Home Bags

To help you nurture strong links with parents and enable learning at home, we have created a great range of story bags using well-known books and props. The bags include familiar stories, rhymes and characters that children will enjoy sharing using the puppets and props to help bring the ideas to life. They are certain to engage and delight young children whilst supporting their early communication, language and literacy.

The bags offer a highly practical solution for a lending library being made from strong, waterproof material which fully protects the books and props. They have a transparent front panel to make it easy for children to see what's inside and really easy to carry.

Product Safety

Early Excellence have a specialist, highly experienced and qualified team that develop and select all of our indoor equipment, furniture and resources. We provide products which meet the learning and developmental needs of children.

When working with children, practitioners should remember that some children have less life experience than others. Children may not see and understand the consequences of their actions related to hazards and risks during their play. It is therefore the responsibility of the practitioner in the school/setting to select suitable resources that are age, stage and developmentally appropriate. The practitioner must consider the environment they will be used in, the needs and ages of the children and staffing levels – which take into account experience and qualifications of staff.

Artefacts and special resources are suitable for use with older children. These resources will need specific consideration for their use because they may be delicate and will need careful handling.

Buying Guide

This buying guide provides you with all of the details you need to choose the furniture and storage that's right for you. It provides information about each Complete Classroom and lists technical information about the different levels and styles of furniture, as well as the storage options available. For further details and advice please contact our Sales Team who will be happy to help.

Choose the Right Size of Furniture

To support the development of continuous provision, we supply a wide range of high quality shelving units for children 2-6yrs. Low level units to display books and resources for children age 2-3yrs, a mid level range of slightly taller shelving units and an easel support role play and mark making, plus high level shelving, book, easel and role play units are effective in displaying accessible resources for children 4-6yrs. Our mobile units provide flexible options for shared spaces across the age range 3-6yrs.

Mobile Furniture Range

This range of double sided mobile units are really versatile. Ideal for displaying continuous provision in rooms that need to be used flexibly, you can display resources on the shelving on one side and choose whether you would like to house books, introduce a transient painting area or create a space for extending role play on the other side. They are also great for storing going home bags.

All of our mobile units have fully lockable wheels for stability once they are in place.

Create Inspirational Outdoor Environments for KS1 & EYFS

'The two resourced outdoor classrooms we bought last year have transformed outdoor learning in our school, promoting flexible, creative learning opportunities enabling children's independence and deep level learning to thrive.'

Nichola Russell
Headteacher, Sandal Castle
Primary, Wakefield

'We have an unusual outdoor space, and it was through our work with Early Excellence, who inspired and supported us, that we were able to provide an exciting, dynamic, challenging and well-resourced area which offers opportunities for children to become independent learners and explorers outdoors.'

Judy Shaw
Headteacher, Tuel Lane Infant
School, Sowerby Bridge

'Your support was really valuable in enabling me to improve my outdoor area to make a real impact on children's learning.'

Jane Laverack
Teacher, Hoyland Springwood
School, Barnsley
